Liquid Crystal Antioxidant Eye Treatment is super charged with Ionic & LED Technology

Another breakout star of 2019 has been MYSKINBUDDY! This cult favorite has also won a 2019 L+A Fav Award! This dynamic device contains Ionic technology and LED light therapy. These 2 features make it an ideal device to pair with Unicorn Tears from Hale & Hush. MYSKINBUDDY's negative ionic setting improves penetration of the sophisticated, "snap-turn" antioxidant and the lipid crystals in Unicorn Tears. The red LED setting also helps to improve the anti-aging benefits of the rich eye serum.

Unique Ingredients Make Unicorn Tears So Effective

The Hale & Hush Brilliant Eye & Lip Serum has gained such notoriety because of the superior ingredient technology. Rather than focus on plumping the skin with traditional ingredients, it enhances lipid levels and barrier function by replenishing cholesterol. Brilliant Eye & Lip also includes a highly effective antioxidant that provides superior cellular protection for mitochondria and DNA.

What are the liquid crystals in Unicorn Tears?

Brilliant Eye & Lip Serum

CHOLESTERYL NONANOATE, CHOLESTERYL OLEYL, CHOLESTERYL STEARATE:

A liquid crystal fluid comprised of “cholesteryl”, which is the form of cholesterol for cellular storage. Cholesterol is an essential component of cell structure, communication and biochemistry. Topical liquid crystal enhances skin’s lipid levels, barrier function, softness and flexibility.

What is the antioxidant in Unicorn Tears?

PHENYL T-BUTYLNITRONE (SPIN TRAP): Phenyl t-Butylnitrone (PBN) is an intelligent and powerful antioxidant compound known as a “Spin Trap” because of how it targets and traps free radicals to convert them to stable molecules that are no longer destructive for removal by the body or for reuse in various cellular processes. PBN is particularly effective against the aggressive hydroxyl and superoxide radicals to provide superior protection for mitochondria and DNA, which are especially susceptible to those two radicals.
